

ALIEN FIGHTS WORLD WAR II

In spite of the fact that America had very little to do with the defeat of Germany in World War II, Hollywood persists in portraying them as the heroes who won the day when the rest of the allies were about to lie down and die. Such is the case with Zone Troopers an exciting World War II adventure film with a difference.

The difference is that the squad of American soldiers lost behind Nazi lines in the film stumble across what they first believe is a German secret weapon. While under attack they are also aided by an unseen person which they find rather unusual to say the least. But further investigations prove that the secret weapon they have found is in fact the wreckage of an immense space ship and the unseen person who came to their aid was in fact an inter-galactic space traveller.

Deep in the snow-bound forests of Belgium, three armies clash: the Americans, Germans and Inter-planetary as the Americans and the stranded alien make their desperate bids to escape.

Zone Troopers is rated PG. Available August 11.
